"My Trip To Europe"

(By RICHARD LEHMAN, Deceased)

EDITORIAL EXPLANATION:

Friends of the late Richard Lehman, in Hamlin, will be interested to know that during the past summer when Richard was on his trip to his old home in Germany, the Hamlin Woman's Literary Club, was making out their Year Book Schedule, with "Arm Chair Travels" as their course of study. It was fitting and proper that Mr. Lehman, an appreciated citizen of Hamlin should be asked to appear on the program sometime during the year and give a talk on his trip to Europe. He accepted this honor and the day before his tragic death, the book was printed. When his brothers, Ernest and Otto were here, they learned of this and found notes Richard had left, and requested that one of them be permitted to assemble the points of the trip, as far as possible, and send them to the Club to be read when the time came. Had Richard lived, he would have read his paper Friday, November 27.

In memory of Mr. Lehman, the Club heard the following account of the trip, as prepared by Carl Lehman, brother of Richard. Carl says in his explanation to the Club: "I used Richard's notes he had prepared on the subject, however his notes were made up for his understanding and I had to use my own judgment. I know how much better Richard could have done and spoken about all these things. . . . I believe Richard's impressions were really the impressions I have tried to convey in this story."

The paper was read by Mrs. H. O. Cassle.

PART ONE

"The day is May 8th, 1936; the time is 5 minutes past midnight. I am at Hoboken, N. J., on board of the Holland-American Line boat 'VEENDAM'. After getting all visitors to leave the boat — which wasn't an easy job for the crew, since some farewells scenes were very tender and lengthy—the machines of the boat start to go, and one notices that we are pulling away from 'terra firma.' It is good-by to America, however, it is satisfaction for me to know that it will be only a very temporary good-by.

"Soon one feels that the engines have reached full power and the boat makes rapid progress down the Hudson River under the able guidance of the special river pilot. Of course nobody thinks of going to bed in spite of the late hour, but we all stand on the railing admiring the beautiful and gigantic looking skyline of Manhattan. Soon we pass the BATTERY, New York's most Southern point, and the point where we leave the Hudson River to come into open water, the Atlantic. Well, there is nothing better now to do, but to settle down in the ship's lounge (or library or smoking-room) to look at each other and get acquainted.

"On it goes through the night, the first night in your cabin which is going to be your room for 10 days to come. One sleeps well this night; not only is such good sleep induced by the fact to be away from the fast-moving hustling and bustling city life (New York) but the salty air and the steady and monotonous sound of the engines, which have an easy job this night, since the ocean is very quite with hardly any waves. Even though I know that the ship must stop once more far out on Ambrose Light-Ship to let the pilot off, I didn't hear it any more, but I slept.

"Morning, after a sound fine sleep, the first thing after waking up, is to take a look through the cabin window and what a surprise for me who is accustomed to so much of our Texas Plains; wherever my eyes turn water and sky. The urge to get on deck this first morning out, is very big; it is such a different world that greets you, such a novelty. A steady sliding through the waves, our surroundings water and sky, that is something which will impress anybody.

"I don't wish to take your time with telling you of the breakfast; but I like to tell you just the one thing and that is — providing one does not get sea-sick—eating is one of the main occupations on an ocean trip, and there is hardly anything in culinary art that can't be had. Eats are plentiful and the selection and quality, fit for a king.

"Permit me, to say now a few words about the boat. It was the 'VEENDAM' — a CABIN - boat, which means that is has no first and second class, but only cabin which is equal to first class, then it has tourist and third-class. While I was fortunate to travel in Cabin, I wish to state that Tourist-class and even Third Class are very nice nowadays. The Cabins are situated on A and B deck. 'B' deck means, it is the deck immediately under the top (the floor) of the ship; in other words the floor of the deck is the ceiling of your cabin. 'A' Deck is the deck built NOT INTO THE BODY of the boat like the B-Deck, but built ON TOP as an upper structure. The cabins are all well furnished; I am fortunate to have one next to the middle of the ship which are the choice-ones (since in bad stormy weather it doesn't shake so much). They are comparable to any fine American hotel room, with every modern convenience such as bath and cold and warm-running water. On B-Deck there also is the dining room for Cabin-passengers, very beautifully arranged in typical old Dutch style. One gets his certain table for the rest of the voyage and 2 able stewards (waiters) are at your table at times to look after your wants. Of course there is an orchestra to entertain during the meal. On the same deck, that is B-deck, there is also the barber-shop, the purser's office, doctor's office and the one of the Chief-steward. The A-Deck, that is the one on top of the boat, has the finest cabins, just a limited number to leave room for the Promenade-Walk which surrounds these cabins and is used by anybody who likes to walk a lot. There is another deck higher than that and this is the one I liked best; it is entirely devoted to enjoyment and leisure, two things which any traveler (referring to ocean-travelers in particular) wants to have. Here you find the Library, a cozy fine room, beautifully fitted in red velvet and well attended by an able steward who is a very able conversationalist. Next to it, is the lounge, where you may rest and read, take your tea at 5 o'clock, accompanied by music of the ship's orchestra, where people also play cards or any other game they wish. The smoking

BULLDOGS PLAY BULLDOGS TODAY

This Friday at 2:30 P. M. in Stamford, there will be a "bulldog fight" on the High School Athletic Field. At that time the Stamford Bulldogs will be tackled by the Burk Burnett Bulldogs.

The Stamford team won 9-B District Honors and the Burk Burnett team won 10-B District Honors, and what honors! Now it is to see who will be the "honored" of the honored as concerning the two districts. Hamlin being in 9-B District and a recent contestant of the Stamford Bulldogs, are invited, with their football boosters to come over and root for the Stamford boys.

As far as sports are concerned, this should be one of the best "tussles" in this part of the Lone Star State. It will mean the expenditure of lots of youthful energy both muscular and breath. Of course, there will be the yelling and jumping Pep Squad, that is part of it, and on the side lines will be anxious parents, brothers and sisters, watching the battle for honors.

The Supt. of the Stamford Schools announces that the admission will be Only 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

Stamford is Hamlin's close neighbor and to be neighborly, all who wish to see a good football game can help this neighbor out this Friday by going over and making a noise for the Stamford Bulldogs.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Proffitt, who have lived the past eight years in the Wise Chapel community left last Saturday for Glen Rose, near which they have purchased a farm of 103 acres. This is to be their home—and no more renting. Earl says he is going to raise some cotton, some corn, peanuts, vegetables — later some fruit and pecans—cows and poultry—live at home—eat at home.

STUDENTS ENJOYED HOME THANKSG'NG

One of the thrills of college life is "home-coming," especially Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter.

The going back is not so pleasant. It seems that Hamlin young people are rushing college this term or maybe college is rushing them.

The conspicuous students at home the past week-end were: Delma Shelburne, Jack Farrow, Ernest Jenkins, Warren Nobles, Wynell Cox and Miss Mary Beth Moody of the big school at Lubbock. Shelburne was accompanied by a big handsome young student friend by the name of Jones.

Baylor University sent greetings to Hamlin by Ray Willingham, Marvin York, J. C. Turner and Miss Geneva Albritton, all returning to Waco on Sunday.

Miss Carolyn Greenway came down from the Canyon Teachers College for a short Thanksgiving visit with her homefolks. When she arrived she found her sister quarantined because of scarlet fever—too bad. Miss Greenway is getting along fine in Canyon.

Miss Louise Reynolds from Abilene Christian College enjoyed her short holidays at home with her parents.

Denton State Teachers College was represented by Misses Laura Q. Martin and Clydene Wilson.

Miss Annie Merle Ferguson from the Texas State Teachers College at Denton had a good time at home with her mother, Mrs. B. S. Ferguson, as a Thanksgiving treat.

Ross Walker Jr. from John Tarleton College at Stephenville, had a good time on his father's ranch north of Hamlin during the Thanksgiving time.

Carroll Benson of Simmons University came over Friday to spend the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Benson.

Miss Lucille Newsom a student at McMurry College returned to Abilene Monday after spending Thanksgiving holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Newsom.

Richard Feagan from S. M. U., Dallas, spent his Thanksgiving holidays here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Feagan.

MOTHER OF BOB BARROW

DIED IN HAMILTON

Mrs. B. G. Barrow, mother of Bob Barrow, of this city, died Saturday in a hospital in Hamilton, Texas. About four weeks ago Mrs. Barrow fell and broke her leg and later developed other complications causing her death. At her bedside were her son, Bob Barrow and wife and their daughter, Mildred and son, Bobbie, of Hamlin, who had been called to Hamilton, when Mrs. Barrow's condition became serious.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon in Hico, and others attending from Hamlin were Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Barrow, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rountree, Mr. Paul Bryan and Mr. Bert Pribble.

Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Floyd and little Miss Peggie Anne of Junction, came up Thanksgiving to spend a few days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McClung.

We will buy your old magazines if in good condition or exchange with you. Plenty at 5c you haven't read. Also the best place to buy furniture.

REV. CLIFTON WILL SPEAK TO W. M. U. FRIDAY

This Friday afternoon, Rev. R. A. Clifton, who is doing the preaching in the series of meetings now being held at the First Baptist Church, will speak to the W. M. U. at 2:30 o'clock at the church. Rev. Clifton is a returned missionary from Brazil and will speak of Mission work in that country. His message will be inspirational, interesting and enlightening.

Every woman of the church is urged to be present and women or other churches of the town are cordially invited to hear this message.

Today (Friday) has been designated by the Women as "All Around the World Day of Prayer."

The Lottie Moon Week of Prayer has been observed each afternoon this week with meetings at the church. The Program Leaders for the week were Mrs. Fairey, Monday, Mrs. Boyd, Tuesday, Mrs. Harvey, Wednesday and Mrs. Ferrell, Thursday.

METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday School at 9:45. Preaching at 11:00. Subject for this hour, "The Christian's Secret." The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed at the close of the sermon. The League meets at 6:30. Preaching at 7:15. We hope to make this service Evangelistic.

Remember that the second Sunday in this month is the day for this congregation to make its offering to the Orphanage. Let each one have that in mind and bring your offering on that day, the 13th. Because of the revival meeting now in progress at the First Baptist Church we will not have our mid-week prayer meeting this week and next. We urge our people to attend the service at the Baptist Church. Let each one pray that this may be a great Spiritual awakening.

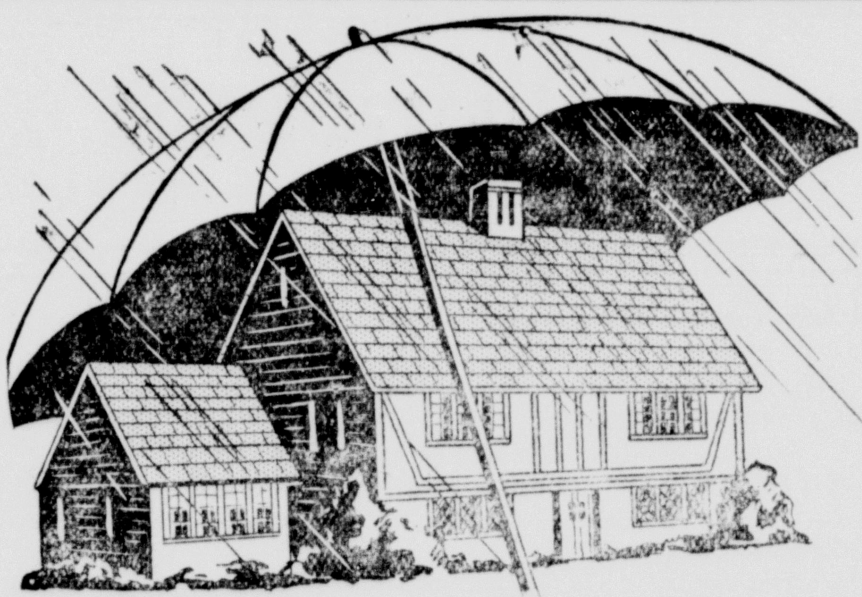

Everything starts off fine for the new conference year. The pastor and his family are delighted with the gracious way our people have received us. Let each member of the church work and pray that this may be the greatest year we have ever had. I earnestly urge each one of you members to pray daily that God may lead us, and that this year may be long remembered because of the manifestation of the presence of God in our midst.

Sincerely,
H. W. HANKS, Pastor.

Among the Hamlin teachers who took advantage of the Thanksgiving holidays for a bit of leisure were Mr. Rupert Jackson, who visited his parents in Baird, Mr. I. T. Collier who made a trip to Fort Worth, Marlin and Waco, Mr. Tom Cox who visited friends in Big Spring, Mrs. Virginia Holmes who spent the time in Austin with friends, Misses Viva Milstead and Ruby Thompson who visited in Houston and Galveston, Miss Marcelle Jones who spent the week-end in Fort Worth with friends, Miss Duckworth who returned to her home in Abilene and Miss Georgia Moore who visited her mother in Sweetwater. Perhaps other Hamlin teachers had the pleasure of a Thanksgiving visit that the Herald did not learn about.

Miss Bernice Fairey of the Avoca school, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Fairey, the past Thanksgiving and week-end.

Miss Florence Boyd of the Sweetwater schools, came over for her Thanksgiving Days at home with her parents and Hamlin friends.

Trip to Europe

room with bar is adjoining; a beautiful room, kept in dark oak and sky-lights as a ceiling; those skylights are painted in Hollandish scenes. Comfortable chairs invite you to sit there to enjoy a game of cards or dominoes while enjoying a glass of beer. Of course if anyone wishes to get anything stronger than beer, liquors and other beverages of all nations, can be had. Around all these rooms, is a clean and very long promenade walk, partly protected by glass, partly open. Here you find a steward catering to your wishes such as getting deck-chair and wrapping you comfortably into blankets while sitting in this chair. For people who don't feel like sitting around, there are lots of games such as ping-pong, miniature golf and pool to be found. While I don't wish to tell you too lengthily about the boat, I cannot fail to mention the SUN-DECK, because this is the deck (on top of the upper-structure called A-deck) where one feels more "free" than anywhere else; here is lots of air, fresh, invigorating ocean-air. Here are the life-boats fitted for any emergency that may arise. And, permit me to say, this is the deck of romance: when I said before that one feels free there, so this free implies also to honeymoon-couples and romantic people who like to look at the stars and feel free from curious eyes, and there is no better place for that than the Sun-deck.

"All in all, a modern boat is like a fashionable hotel and an ocean-trip is a real enjoyment, at least for people who are not subject to sea-sickness. As for myself, I want to mention that I enjoyed every day of this trip.

"All good things come to an end and after 10 days on the ocean I arrived at Rotterdam, Holland. This is one of Europe's largest harbors. For me, coming from America, the most surprising contrast in the city-appearance—that is the life on the streets—was to see everybody on bicycles, young and old; men, women and children. This is the principal means of transportation for the Dutch people, just as here we feel lost without an automobile. Rotterdam, itself is a typical waterfront-town, old and busy. Many buildings can be seen which must be hundreds of years old and still in use. There was not much delay in getting off the boat, taking care of my baggage and getting to the station; people around me, speaking a language of which I understood very little, made me think of my early days in America when I was "very much in conflict" with the English language yet; but this Hollandish people everywhere showed themselves very friendly and helpful—and soon I was on the famous "Rheingold." This is one of the outstanding European trains, all stream-lined and going from the ocean (Holland) to the Alps (Switzerland) following closely all the time by the river Rhine, one of the world's most beautiful valleys. Soon we are to cross the German border and the German custom officer appears, typical in his appearance, for the eyes of us Americans, very military appearance. One opens his baggage for inspection and he puts his O K on that, in case there is nothing in the baggage that duty has to be paid on. The next fellow demands to know how much money one has when entering Germany and makes a note about the amount into your passport. This, while we here in America would be very indignant about—to tell anybody how much money we have in the pocket—is something very important due to the peculiar financial situation in Germany under the Dictatorship of Hitler. I will speak on this subject more in just a little while, but I want to tell you, why it is important to have the amount of money you have, entered into your passport. Germany has a very strict law at present that no person can take any money OUT of Germany. Now, for example if I wouldn't have this money, I bring into Germany when crossing the borders, registered in my passport, whenever I wanted to go back into a foreign country that is out of Germany, the Germans would attach all my money since I would not have a proof that I did not obtain this money IN GERMANY; actually I brought it in and therefore have a right to take it out.

I mentioned before about the peculiar—let's call it by the right name, BAD, financial situation Germany is in and in this regard they try everything to attract foreign tourists just to get foreign money which they need so badly. I therefore did not have to buy German money for the regular rate, but the government in their eagerness to get our good American dollar, gives a 45 per cent discount on German money. That is, one gets actually 45 per cent German money more as one would get in regular world's exchange. This is called "Traveler's-Mark" or Traveler's Money and can be used for traveling expenses ONLY, that is one can't buy merchandise with it. It is a typical example how desperate Germany is to get foreign money, which means gold for them, and for which they can buy foreign raw materials.

"I promised you, to explain a little more about Germany's financial troubles of which a careful observer can see lots. While the German Mark (Mark is the name of their monetary unit) apparently is stable in the world-market, its gold-coverage is hardly anything. You will ask: well, if so, why does the world recognize the German mark as having a certain value? This is simple: the world and especially America, invested so much money in Germany after the war that if they would permit the German money to go down to its real low-value, the German financial structure, their whole public-debts-refunding system would crash and consequently every foreign investment would be lost. It also would mean great unrest in Germany, and the world, especially Europe, now is so nervous that they can't permit more unrest as it is already; such unrest does not stop at borders but is contagious and especially contagious in Europe where borders of nations are so close together. Another very important reason is that if the German money would be devaluated to its real value, Germany would be able to flood the world with cheap merchandise, because they would have a chance to pay their workers in cheap money.

"I did not want to give you a lecture on finance, but speak about my trip in Germany; but strange as it may sound to your ears, one can't speak of today's Germany without speaking of money-matters and political matters, because Hitler's unfortunate regime embodied both these problems into every day life in Germany.

Therefore let me go back to my trip through the Rhine-Valley sitting in the beautiful Rhinegold train. The picture is magnificent. The trains following closely the banks of the Rhine, passes every mile of it run spots known to everybody for its folk-lore and history. Since Germany is a very old country whose history goes back many thousand years, one can see from the train on every mountain on both sides of the train old castles which many hundreds of years ago were the seats of powerful noble men; that is, to tell the truth, while they call themselves noblemen, we Americans would call them "gangsters" because after all, all they ever did was to build a castle on some vantage-point where they could overlook the river and where lots of forest was and collected a bounty from every ship or anybody who passed their castle and also got the revenues out of the forest, not to speak about the people who lived around there and who had to pay some bounty ever so often to this "nobleman." Of course German books don't say this, but they weave around all these places a story very clever and very romantic.

"We pass beautiful, spotlessly clean small villages and big cities (Cologne) and soon come down into Southern Germany, nearer my destination—the city of Mannheim. Now, these mountains we see are not all forests and old castles, but all along the slopes are wine plantations, since this is where the world-famous Rhine wine grows. Every little village we pass, its name has a special meaning for the wine vine-connoisseurs of the world. We reach Mayence (a city on the Rhine) and the mountains get smaller until very soon they lose themselves into hills, covered with vineyards and other products of agriculture. One notes immediately how every little speck of ground is cultivated. Soon the picture changes again and more and more industry is seen from the train. Modern factories apparently very busy can be seen everywhere. Soon I am in Mannheim and it is here that I meet my sister who came for many miles to welcome me home. It would go too far to tell you my happiness—the happiness of my sister—to see each other after so many years. There were a thousand questions about my brothers here in America—about America and everything connected with it.

"We spent a few hours in the city of Mannheim before we continued the last leg of my trip to my sister's home which is another 50 miles away from Mannheim on the other side of the Rhine and near to Alsace Lorraine, that is near the French border.

OIL-PLATE YOUR ENGINE

This is exactly true: Oil-Plating supplies lubrication in LESS THAN NO TIME AT ALL!

Faster than "instantly"... faster than the fastest-flowing Winter oil might even begin to flow, Oil-Plating is ready to lubricate.

That's because a genuine Plating of Conoco Germ Processed oil is always left firmly bonded to every working part. Like any other real Plating, this Oil-Plating cannot run off. After hours or days of standing in the cold, Oil-Plating is still perfectly ready-to-go.

Now these days you read on every side, how poorly-oiled starting causes most engine wear, and how fast a Winter oil ought to flow. But you cannot have even a doubt of sure starting-lubrication, when it is always UP IN ADVANCE. That's Oil-Plating... a plain, straight, economic reason for changing to your correct free-flowing Winter grade of Conoco Germ Processed oil—patented. Costs no more than changing by hunch.

McCAULEY NEWS

A number from the McCauley Baptist Church attended the State B. T. U. convention at Abilene, Thursday, November 26.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills and family moved to Sylvester the past week, which we regret very much.

A large crowd was present at the Baptist Church Friday evening, November 27, to hear Dr. Wiley Glass speak on mission work in China. His talk was very interesting and educational due to his many years of experience in China as a missionary.

One of our home-town boys, Mr. Virgil Stephenson who is teaching school at Stanton, married during the past week.

A very bad automobile accident happened two miles south of McCauley Sunday evening about 8:30 o'clock. A model A Ford which belonged to some negroes of McCauley and a '36 Packard which belonged to some girls from Stamford, were completely ruined. No one was seriously injured.

Miss Annie Galloway is very ill with pneumonia.

THE IMPORTANCE OF AIR!

Requirement of food, water and air to sustain life.

Food . . 3 pounds per day { An adult can exist
for approximately 40
days without food

Water . . 4 pounds per day { An adult can exist
for approximately 12
days without water

Air . . 27 pounds per day { An adult can exist
for approximately 10
minutes without air

The air supply of a person is of first importance. Therefore it is a wise precaution to keep the air in the home during winter as pure as the warm oxygen-laden air of summer. A room that is poorly ventilated can be injurious to health.
Inadequate fresh air and a lack of pure, warmed air throughout the home make it easy to "catch cold."

A simple method of providing a constant circulation of fresh air is found by keeping a window in each room slightly open.
Connecting doors left open between adjoining rooms, when the entire house is adequately heated, provide a natural circulation of pure, warmed air from one room to another.

Never permit the air you breathe to become "stuffy" through lack of pure air circulation. Heat your entire house and provide fresh air ventilation for your health's sake. It's important to you and your family.

TO THE SCHOOL TEACHER

(By an ex-pupil of D. L. Smith, Supt. of McCaulley High School)

In a small-town school house, Rules one who may not be so great In the opinion of some folks; But to me he ranks first rate.

He's not as famous as some actor, Statesman and others of the day; But none is serving more faithfully Than this teacher in his humble way.

He stands at the head of his little group

Of scholars and other teachers too, Encouraging them to greater success Pointing out the right things to do.

He's always ready to help others too, Those he taught many years ago, When he meets you, it's with a hearty hand-shake, His best wishes are with you wherever you go.

He corrects and advises when he must,

Stands strong in his position in command;

But it's always in an unselfish, loving way, His is a guiding, helping hand.

Not only a teacher is this great man, To all who know him, he's a worthy friend,

We value him to the greatest extent,

For he's with us to the end.

A Scientific Truth!

MEAT AND HOT SLAW TRIPLE DECKER

1 large loaf of bread
3 cups left-over beef, chopped
1 cup gravy
4 cups coarsely chopped cabbage
3 eggs
1/2 cup hot vinegar
1/2 cup water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups cottage cheese well seasoned
8 canned apricot halves
2 tablespoons melted butter

Cut bread in 24 slices, 1/4 inch thick; trim off crusts. Butter 16 slices on one side, 8 slices on both sides. Heat meat in gravy. Separate eggs, mix together egg yolks, vinegar, water and salt; cook over hot water until thick. Add cabbage and heat thoroughly. Beat egg whites stiff, add to cottage cheese. Place 8 of the slices of bread buttered on one side on a baking pan; spread with meat mixture. Cover with bread buttered on both sides; spread with cabbage mixture. Cover with remaining bread; pile cheese mixture on top; arrange half apricot on cheese. Pour a little melted butter on top and brown in hot oven at 450° F. or under broiler. Makes 8.

HERE'S a scientific truth worth remembering — Bread furnishes quick as well as sustained energy! Actual laboratory research conducted by leading doctors and food experts proves that Bread digests with a steady release of muscle fuel. It releases its abundant energy slowly and steadily. Therefore, a person eating Bread for breakfast is making sustenance throughout the morning adequate and sure.

Every member of your family will benefit by eating Bread — your best and cheapest energy food.

You know what unfavorable weather conditions did to most food crops this year. Many foods having half their normal yield have depleted canners' stocks. We feel sure practically all foods will continue to advance until next year's crops are harvested.

But here is good news: Safeway contracted for foods last Spring had them shipped before the strike took effect, and that's why we can feature canned goods at the low prices quoted in this advertisement.

Good business judgment calls for buying while prices are low — we've done just that. Now, Mrs. Housewife, is your opportunity to show good business judgment by stocking your pantry shelves you'll be happy if you do.
